Governor's Message.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

FELLOW CITIZENS,

WE meet to fulfil our constitutional duties, under circumstances of happiness and promise peculiar to us as a people. Peace, plenty and safety are within our walls, and we are invincible in the character we have acquired. Our nation has just exhibited to the world a scene of the most interesting and peculiar kind: a chief magistrate of the United States, to serve four years, has been elected, and is indebted for his elevation solely to his virtues, his talents and patriotism. Such an election and such an opportunity for a people to reward a faithful public servant, is only presented under our happy form of government. May we long enjoy it, and our children and their children's children, by fidelity to principle, singleness of heart and simplicity of manners, prove themselves worthy of those who dared to proclaim our independence and our rights, and those whose valor and whose sufferings atchieved such inestimable blessings.

The interesting view which our country presents in its many existing and progressing improvements, and in the inland navigation of which our state and adjoining states are susceptible, suggests to the mind as one of the best, and eventually to Pennsylvania, most profitable improvements, a canal connecting the lake waters in the state of New-York with the Suspuehanna river. Independent of the trade from that state which would thereby flow thro' our country and to our metropolis, and independent of its probably issuing in a water communication to the St. Lawrence, there would accrue numerous advantages to the inhabitants of the wide spreading Susquehanna, the Juniata and their numerous tributary streams, by securing to them a cheap water carriage of gypsum, now an essential in agriculture, and for that indispensable necessary of life, salt. Another great advantage would be the facility and cheapness with which the iron of Centre, Huntingdon and other counties in Pennsylvania would be transported to the lake country, where nature has denied that most valuable of metals—These very obvious advantages to our constituents, will, I flatter myself, induce a liberal legislature to aid by a subscription for stock, a company authorised by a law of New-York, to cut a canal from the head of Seneca lake to the Chemug, a branch of Tioga which empties into the north east branch of the Susquehanna. A memorial on the subject and a letter containing information which may facilitate inquiry, I take the liberty herewith to present.

That our judiciary system has not attained that perfection essential to a prompt and faithful administration of justice, is a truth generally acknowledged, and by many severely felt. I have, at a former legislature, hazarded the opinion that the evils complained of are not so inherent in the system, as they are consequences resulting from the practice under it. By the official reports of the prothonotaries of the several counties, it is ascertained that in most of the counties double, and in some more than four times as many suits at law, are finally disposed of by arbitration as are determined by jury trial. In one of the western counties thirty three causes were finally disposed of under the arbitration system in one year, during which time it does not appear, that one suit was tried by a jury. These facts incontestibly prove that inefficient as may be our system of jurisprudence, yet it can't with truth be ascribed to its defects that in Pennsylvania justice by jury trial is not administered "without sale, denial or delay." The experience and observation of a life, chiefly spent in public stations, convince me that so long as the chambers of counsellors are beset by clients, in term time, frequently until ten o'clock in the day for the purpose of preparing for trial causes then on the trial list, and that in consequence of such and other indulgences by the judges, not more than four or five hours of the day are devoted to business in the court room, and so long as the laudable practice of determining every cause without adjournment is not adopted by the court or enforced by the legislature, so long shall we be compelled to witness an entire term taken up in the trial of a single, perhaps unimportant cause; and short sessions and long adjournments will render a dead letter the constitutional injunction which has been quoted. In addition to the suggestions made, in this important subject to the last legislature, is now submitted whether some provision ought not to be made to guard against the frauds and injustice, too often consequent on the manner in which mortgages are given and the length of time they are kept without being put upon record, to the injury of innocent purchasers and of creditors who may obtain judgments subsequent to the execution, though previous to the recording of the mortgage. The practice of insolvent debtors making assignments, excluding all those of his creditors from any share of the property of the insolvent who do not agree to the terms dictated in the assignment before a given time, is believed to be pregnant with injustice. Some legal regulation on this subject is loudly called for.

It is held by some of our courts of law, that the amount of a judgment obtained amicably before a justice of the peace for a sum exceeding one hundred dollars and subsequently entered in the office of the prothonotary agreeable to and under a special provision of the act entitled "An act to amend and consolidate with its supplements an act entitled an act for the recovery of debts and demands not exceeding one hundred dollars, before a justice of the peace, and for the election of constables, and for other purposes," cannot be recovered nor can the judgment be revived by any process of the court when the period approaches at which it would cease to be a lien on the real estate of the defendant. Believing that under this construction of the law, the object contemplated by the legislature is not attained, I would recommend such an amendment of the law as would make a justice's judgment, when filed and entered according to law, have all the attributes, force and effect, and to be proceeded upon as if the judgment had been originally obtained before the court of common pleas.

A knowledge of cases of hardship and cruelty, induces me to solicit legislative interposition in behalf of the unfortunate and unprotected wife and children of the confirmed drunkard. The demoralizing, depopulating, and, I regret to say, increasing vice of drunkenness, would in my judgment be checked by a classification of taverns, by raising the price for licensing such as are useful and necessary, and by preventing the granting of licenses to houses not necessary for the accommodation of travellers or the inhabitants of the vicinage, and whose only customers are the drunkard and his vicious associates. I reiterate with more increased anxiety the wish, that seduction be punished as a criminal offence.

The frequency of oaths, and the levity with which they are commonly administered on occasions trifling and unnecessary, beget indifference and irreverance for the most awful appeal which the creature can make to his Creator. This has not only a most pernicious influence upon morals and the order of society generally, but it causes the commission of numerous injuries by perjury. This abomination in our land it is feared will increase whilst oaths are uselessly multiplied, and so long as the distinction between merely moral and constructively legal perjuries shield the perjured against prosecution and deserved punishment.

Reason, on which our laws are said to be founded, has not like vices and crimes, degrees and subdivisions, like its Divine Author, it is an eternal and unchangeable unit. As it is so eminently desirable, let us in our policy as nearly as human nature is capable of, conform to this immutibable divine law. Let us endeavour to restore to proper consideration this most solemn transaction between man and his God. Would not the attainment of this important object be promoted by prohibiting magistrates from administering oaths in cases neither authorised nor required by law, where no penalty is incurred by swearing, however falsely and wickedly; and by inflicting the punishment of corrupt perjury in wilful deviations from truth in judicial investigations on matters even immaterial to the issue trying? And might not traverse jurors at the commencement of each court (as is uniformly practised with grand juries) be sworn generally for the faithful performance of their duty and the trial of all issues that should be submitted to them? To diminish the frequency of oaths, will add to their solemnity and increase the weight of their obligations on the conscience. Indeed, such are the baneful effects of the present prostitution of oaths, that it may merit consideration whether every citizen, on his first appearance before a court of civil or criminal jurisprudence, should not be sworn generally to perform with fidelity during his residence in the state, the several and various duties that are or may be by law constitutionally imposed upon members of the community. And to impress the public mind with the sanctity of oaths, to purify the administration of justice, to facilitate judicial enquiries, and to remove a chief cause of corruption of the morals of the community, all perjuries committed with intent to do wrong, ought promptly and severely to be punished.

The many laws which for the furtherance of justice have been passed by a succession of legislatures, confirming in special conveyances made by aliens for lands by them sold to citizens, has suggested the idea of removing by law all disabilities in the former proprietor by reason of alienage and placing the individual claimant an alien on ground similar to the commonwealth under the law of escheats.

This occasion is embraced to submit to the legislature a communication made to the governor by Mr. JEREMY BENTHAM, of London, on the subject of public law; which though dated 14th July, 1814, was not received until after the adjournment of the last legislature, As this philanthropic communication arose out of suggestions of our esteemed fellow-citizen, ALBERT GALLATIN, his letter to the Governor and Mr. Bentham's are herewith submitted and also a letter from the Governor, and other papers connected with this highly interesting subject. The legislature will determine whether, under the circumstances of our as yet unconsolidated systems of civil and criminal polity, we can in the prosecution of this important work be benefitted by the labours of the benevolent Mr. Bentham.

Some of the obstacles that present themselves to the introduction of that system of general education commanded by the constitution, could probably be obviated, if a mode were provided by law as well for laying off the several counties into convenient school districts, as for ascertaining also the qualificatious of schoolmasters, and by paying out of the state treasury a small salary to those that are approved and faithfully discharge their duties. This would excite to emulation, command adequate talents, and exclude mere pretenders to the science of teaching.

Many and too fruitless have been the efforts made towards a perfect organization and disciplining of the militia. I am of opinion, to make it an efficient national force, it ought to be organized, armed, disciplined under the authority of Congress. The constitution of the United States vests this right in the legislature of the union, and their exercise of it would probably secure a more energetic and certainly a more uniform system, than can be hoped from the legislature of the several states. If I might hazard an opinion founded on some experience, I would pronounce our present militia law injurious to the service, from its legislating too much. There is in it an unimportant minuteness of detail, which might with advantage be left to the sound discretion of the officer. It is also diffuse and contains so many apparent contradictions, inconsistencies and clashings of authority, that its various provisions can neither be distinctly embraced, reconciled, or carried into effect.

The attempt to convert every man, under a certain age into a soldier, is demonstrably futile. The ambition and military pride essential to a soldier, is only to be found amoung the young and the vigorous; and such materials formed into select corps, well appointed and equipped, would constitute the pride & strength, the safety and glory of our country. These corps, in case of necessity, as was honorably demonstrated by our youth during the late war, would promtly march to meet the enemy at the most exposed and distant points. Such ardor and alacrity is not to be expected from men settled in business and advanced in life. They have imposed upon them the high and binding obligations of husband and father. These and their pecuniary transactions locate them to a spot from which they depart with reluctance. This description of men should be enrolled, officered and organized, and be called out in classes or otherwise when danger was imminent or the select corps unequal to the emergency of the times. To muster this force one day in the year, would accomplish all the objects ever likely to be acquired training the great body of the people. The other days, now worse than uselessly spent on parade, would be employed in adding to the wealth of the nation, and a reasosable commutation would by the men thus excused from military duty, be willingly paid. The money thus raised would go far to remunerate the select militia for the time by them necessarily spent in acquiring military art, and in meeting the expences incidental to providing uniform clothing, so esssential to inspire the soldier with respect for himself, his comrades and the profession. Remuneration, and any after exemptions or privileges should be appropriated to those only who should faithfully perform their duties as citizen soldiers for a given time.

The health law will expire by its own limitation, in March 1817. To its salutary provsions and the attention of duty to the board of health and other officers of the establishment, may under Divine Providence, be ascribed the preservation of the city of Philadelphia from pestilential and contagious diseases, and all the losses, miseries and afflictions that have heretofore been consequent on the introduction of yellow fever. These considerations dictate a reenactment of the law, if possible, in an improved state. On this subject I communicate a copy of a letter from the board of health.

The law establishing the district court of the city and county of Philadelphia, will also expire by its own limitation in March 1817. All the inducements which caused a former legislature to establish this court, are believed to be urgent and imperative for its continuance, or the establishment in that district of some other tribunal to assist in the disposal of the multitude of causes which necessarily arise in a populous and wealthy district.

A revision of the eighth section of the act entitled 'An act to incorporate the city of Pittsburgh,' is suggested, because doubts are entertained whether certain gentlemen who officiate as alderman of that city, are constitutionally vested with such appointments.

The law directing the erection of arsenals has been partially executed. The sum appropriated was found more than sufficient to erect buildings conformable to the act of assembly. The arsenal at Harrisburg is nearly complete. It will contain, on the ground floor, sixteen pieces of ordnance mounted on their carriages, and a large quantity of small arms, military stores and camp equipage. The structure combines safety, strength, utility and neatness. A contract has been made for building another arsenal at Meadville From the want of those materials which require time to prepare, and are essential, it cannot be completed before next summer. I am gratified at being able to state that I am advised that the state arsenal in Philadelphia and the ordnance, small arms and other state property in it, are in excelent order.

Building materials of the best quality for the contemplated state capitol, have been purchased out of the appropriation of fifty thousand dollars made for that purpose.—The report of the finances of the state, shewing on the 30th day of November last an unexpended balance in the treasury of $276,466 18, presents means adequate to an immediate prosecution of this desirable and necessary work. Three plans for the capitol have been presented, and are herewith submitted for consideration. Gratifying as is the exposition of our finances, yet it must be borne in mind that the last legislature appropriated for various useful public improvements, about $270,000, not much of which has yet been paid. An expectation however is entertained that a considerable portion of the remainder will be called for the ensuing spring and summer.

In conformity to the act directing the sale of the state house and state house square in the city of Philadelphia, a contract has been made for the sale thereof to the corporation of said city for certain purposes in the said act mentioned, for a sum of $70,000, to be paid into the state treasury as the law directs. A copy of the contract and of the correspondence had on the subject is herewith laid before you.

An authentic copy of the act, entitled "An act for the relief of the hospital, at New Orleans and of the Pennsylvania hospital, was by me transmitted to the governor of Louisiana, who by his letter, under date of the 7th of June last, has acknowledged its receipt. He has transmitted also extracts from the journal of the council of the administration of that hospital, expressive of the thanks of the council for the generous support afforded their institution, and of their high sense also of the truly benevolent and honorable motives which influence the councils of Pennsylvania, copies of all which documents I lay before you; likewise of the correspondence between the governors of New Jersey and Pennsylvania, that was consequent to a protest by the last legislature against the passage and operation of certain acts of the legislature of that state, authorising the erection of obstructions to the navigation in the river Delaware.

The various duties imposed upon the executive have been duly performed. The sword directed to be presented in the name of the commonwealth to captain Stewart, will be ready for presentation in a few days. The medals directed by the legislature to be presented to commodore Perry and his brave associates for the splendid victory achieved on lake Erie, would have been presented long before this time, had not the various public services on which the commodore had been ordered, prevented him from furnishing as was wished and expected a profile for one side of the medal. This obstacle it is confidently believed will soon be obviated, and the object of the legislature attained so soon as the artist, pre-eminent for his talents and to whom alone the work could be confided, shall have completed for the United States prior engagements.

Having, in discharge of the obligations imposed by the constitution, given the general assembly information of the state of the commonwealth, and recommended such measures as in my judgement will promote the general good; it remains for me to add that it will give me the purest pleasure to co-operate with you in the adoption of all measures calculated to secure and perpetuate the happiness, the rights and the priviliges of our constituents.

PITTSBURGH.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1816.

The subjects before Congress since the 3d, are, the formal admission of Indiana into the Union—requiring the Directors of the U. States' Bank to establish a competent office of discount and deposit at Washington—the distribution of parts of the Presidents message to committees—the Compensation Law—and requiring from the secretary of war the commissioner's report on the surveying of a road on Tennessee River.

The Harrisburgh Chronicle remarks, that Governor Snyder's messages have been renowned for travelling out of the beaten track pursued by the governors of other states, in addressing the legislative body. Last year he wrote of Bonaparte, and the state of Europe: the eye to the Vice Presidency may have induced this course. This year he congratulates the representatives on the election of Mr. Monroe to the Presidency, and that before the result of the Presidential election could by any possibility be known to his excellency. But perhaps he has received the gift of second sight, or like the king of France or Jemmy Simpson he has seen an apparition.

A dreadful fire broke out in New York on the night of the 3d inst. which laid waste the whole block of buildings bounded by Burling and Beekman slips on the north and south, and by Water and Front street on the east and west, also several houses on the west side of Water street. The fire was accidental. Upwards of 50 buildings destroyed—damage estimated at from 200 000 to 300 000 dollars.

M. Talleyrand Perigord.—According to an article in the Edinburgh Review, this extraordinary character was born in the year 1754. He was the eldest son of a branch of the house of Perigord. He was born club-footed, and on account of this deformity he was deprived of his birthright. And for the same strange reason, he was never suffered to enjoy, even in infancy, the comforts of living in his father's family, under whose roof he never slept; and he was forced into the eccelesiastical profession, in opposition to all his own wishes. He studied at the Sorbonne, at the same time with Abbe Sieyes: and he was then remarked only as a silent and haughty young man, who passed all his time among his books. He was not promoted till the end of the year 1788 or 1789. It was then that he published a famous address to the clergy, which first announced his talents to the world, and raised him, under the patronage of Louis XVI. to be Bishop of Autun. The irreparable injustice that Talleyrand met with in being treated as an outcast by his father, is tho't to have given him the strong bias to intrigue and cunning.—Con. Cour.

From the New York National Advocate.

New York—Mayor's Court.

LAW CASE.

Sitcher vs. Shaw.

This was an action on the case brought by the plaintiff, to recover of the defendant (who is a livery stable keeper) damages for negligently and unskilfully harnessing a horse to a one horse waggon, furnished to the plaintiff by the defendant.

The cause came on to trial before his honour Richard Riker, recorder, at the present November term of this court.

Geo. W. Niven, and Wm. M. Price, of counsel for the plaintiff.

Geo. Griteen, of counsel for defendant.

The character of the horse was admitted to be gentle and kind in harness.

It was in evidence, that the horse was harnessed to the waggon by the servants of the defendant, in the absence of the defendant.

It was also in evidence, that the plaintiff and his servants were in the waggon; and while descending a hill, about four miles from the city, the horse took fright, in consequence of the waggon's touching his heels; and, in passing down the hill, upset the waggon, and caused the injury the plaintiff and servants complained of.—It was also in evidence, that the waggon was considerably injured, which was the defendant's loss.

The plaintiff's counsel rested their cause upon the evidence offered—that the servants of the defendant on harnessing the horse to the waggon, neglected to make the traces of sufficient length to clear the waggon of the horse.

Which point was contested by the defendant's counsel.

The recorder in his charge to the jury, stated the law to be: "That in all cases where a damage accrues to another, by the negligence, ignorance, or misbehaviour of a person in the duty of his trade or calling an action, on the case, will be to redress such injury, And it is no excuse for a defendant, that the act was involuntary on his part for every man in his trade or calling, is presumed to have sufficient skill in such trade or calling, and is bound to exercise due care, and for his acts of folly or want of due care and caution, he shall in this action respond to the party injured in damages. And that the omission or negligence of the servant, in this respect is, in point of law, the omission or negligence of the master.

The jury after retiring a few minutes returned into court with a verdict for the plainiff.

A clear proof that real wealth lies on the surface, rather than in the bowels of the earth. The whole of the annual produce of the agriculture of New Spain or Mexico, is valued by Mr. Humboldt at 39 Millons of dollars. The value of the precious metals extracted yearly froms the mines of the same territory he estimates at about 22 millions of dollars, consequently the wealth which Mexico derives from the precious metals, is in the proportion of 29 to 22, or near in that of 4 to 3. To this it may be added, that, as there is in that country a vast abundance of rich lands which lie uncultivated it is questionable whether the real wealth, of Mexico might not increase quite as fast if its mines, were shut up, and if the many thousands employed in and about those mines were employed in the occupations of agriculture. At any rate the notion that mines of gold or silver are necessary to the enrichment of a country possessing a soil fertile and spacious is false and chimerical.

LORD VISCOUNT EXMOUTH.

It must be in the recollection of many of our readers, that on the 26th of January, 1796, the Dotton East Indiaman, in the transport service, was wrecked under the citadel of Plymouth, and totally lost. Lord Viscount Exmouth (then Sir Edward Pellew) was with many others a spectator from the shore, of the dreadful calamity; and after offering a most liberal reward to any one who would convey a rope on board, but which none could be found to undertake, he boldly resolved to attempt the hazardous enterprize himself, and instantly dashed into the foaming waves, swam to the sinking wreck, which he never quitted until he had completed his work of humanity, by saving the lives of nearly five-hundred of his fellow creatures, who, but for his exertions, must inevitably have perished. The freedom of the Borough of Plymouth was presented to him in an elegant silver box: and at a public entertainment given on the occasion, the following Stanzas, written by a gentleman of Plymouth, were recited: an insertion of them at this time may prove interesting:—

While, o'er the reeling wreck, the savage storm
  Poured all its lightenings, thunders, blasts and hail;
And every horror, in its wildest form,
  Smote the firm heart—that never knew to fail;

'Twas thine, Pellew, sublimely great and good!
  For man, thy brother man, distress'd—to dare
The dreadful passage of the raging flood,
  And join the frantic children of despair.

There, it was thine in comforts balmy tone,
  To soothe their sorrows, 'mid the tempest's roar;
To hush the mother's shriek—the sick man's groan—
  And bear the sufferers, trembling to the shore.

So, when this mighty orb, in dread alarm,
  Shall crash in ruin's at its God's decree;
The saving angel with triumphant arm,
  Shall, from the wreck of all things—rescue thee.

London Paper.

Rome, Sept. 21.—The 173 subjects of the Pope, delivered from Algerine slavery by the British arms, have arrived here.—Mr. Hely, a captain in the English service, and Mr. Aylman, captain of the frigate Severn, which brought these slaves, are all in the capital, and had been presented by their Minister to his Holiness, who received them very graciously, and testified to them his gratitude for the signal service rendered to the Roman States by the arms of his Britanic Majesty.

Although the Dutch journals have announced the departure of Marshal Soult for America, we are assured that he has not quitted Dusseldorf, and resides there with his family.

Fifty Dollars Reward.

A number of persons to me unknown, have been lately trespassing on my farm, situated on Peters creek, Mifflin township, under the plea of hunting out a tract of land claimed by the heirs of William M'Maghan, the title to which never existed but in the minds of those amphibious claimants, and a few interested gentry who have been aiding in this persecution against the family of the Wrights this ten years past.

I will give the above reward to any person or persons, who will give such information as will bring to conviction, the person or persons, who, under this or any other pretence, entered the enclosure of my tenants, on said premises; threw down the fences and marked trees (as if being trees of an old survey on said farm,) as nothing but the most depraved motives could influence those who would commit such an offence against his neighbour, without notice either to me or my tenants, the latter being scarcely ever off the premises. I do forwarn all persons under any plea or claim whatever from entering on the ground contained within either of the two surveys situated as aforesaid and late the property of Zadock Wright deceased, for the purpose of cutting and carrying away wood, coal &c. as I am determined to prosecute for every trespass of that nature, after this notice.

DOCTOR CHISHOLM'S
Anti-Bilious Pills,

Of a quality superior to any thing of the kind ever offered as a GENERAL MEDICINE, in this Countr.

NOW prepared from a recipe of the celebrated Dr. Chisholm, who, from a long residence in the West-India Islands, has been enabled to favor the world with the most complete history, and most approved methods of curing all the BILIOUS DISEASES of those warm climates.

This extraordinary Medicine, which now for the first time is finding its way into general practice, has properties in the highest degree superior to the mercurial nostrums so frequently recommended by the name of Anti-Bilious Pills. The extraordinary powers of this medicine as a solvent and evacuent of Bile, is without example; never producing debility or injuring the health, in the smallest degree, of the most delicate child or weakly female:

Of The BILIOUS HEAD-ACHE, so much complained of in this country, and in the neighbourhood of rivers, is often removed by a single dose, which, to a strong man, is only five pills, and to a weakly woman, three. The same dose will generally remove the most excruciating pains of the cholic, like a charm, by abusing the bile to pass downwards in the course of an hour or two.

Two or three Pills taken an hour before dinner, and repeated every third day, will effectually remove those diseases arising from flatulency and indigestion, and by persevering in the use of them for a considerable time, the appetite will be improved, and strength and vigor will return.

Two Pills taken at bed time, with a cup of penny-royal tea, and repeated every second night, will effectually remove Rheumatic pains wherever seated.

A single Pill, taken every fourth hour with a cup of flaxseed tea, will cure Pleurisy, promote expectoration, and relieve coughs and colds.

In CONSUMPTIVE CASES and DISEASES OF THE LIVER, no medicine ever yet discovered, has been known to perform such cures. Two Pills taken every third morning, will be found sufficient, unless costiveness prevails; in which case the dose may be increased according to the strength or constituton.

The Dysentery, Croup, and Summer Complaint on children, are soon relieved by a few doses. A single Pill to a child of 6 years old, and the dose increased according to their strength and age.

In Asthmatic or Phthisical cases, where the laborious breathing & great oppression, with faintings, are fast sinking the patient to the brink of the grave, a few Pills, taking one every hour, with fennel or pepper-mint tea, will often enable the patient to walk about in a few hours.

The above valuable Medicine is Sold ONLY in Pittsburgh, by

Valuable Real Estate for Sale,

PURSUANT to the last Will and Testament of the late Col. RICHARD BROWN, deceased,

I NOW OFFER FOR SALE,

The Farm on which he resided,

On the Ohio River, in Holliday's Cove, in Brooke County, Virginia.

This Estate consists of about 700 Acres of Land, 250 of which is a rich Island, the remainder principally second bottom and upland; that part of the upland which is not tillable, is covered with timber suitable for furnishing the Island and tillable part with fencing and building timber. There is between 150 and 200 acres cleared and under cultivation, a suitable proportion of which is good meadow land. The buildings consist of two log dwelling houses and a log barn with one story of stone. It is well supplied with very fine springs of good water.

The situation of this property on the Ohio River, five miles from the flourishing Town of Steubenville, and in the neighbourhood of several Merchant Mills, Iron Works, &c. renders it a desirable object to a person who would wish to farm extensively, as he would probably at all times find a good market at his door for the produce of his farm. A part of the purchase will be required in hand, and for the remainder a reasonable credit will be given.
